Where Ken Chertow Stands

Confidential

The national camp field is crowded but soft on two fronts: almost no one runs a modern, conversion-focused website, and the legendary "intensive rite-of-passage" lane sits wide open after J Robinson's camps closed (2021) and his passing (2026). Below: how the programs Ken competes with stack up — and where the daylight is.

THE OPENING FOR KEN

- ◆ The intensive lane is empty. JROB's 28-day rite-of-passage is gone; only Young Guns' 30-day truly competes there. Ken's Super Gold / SuperGirl 2-week + Olympic pedigree can own it.
- ◆ Everybody's website is beatable. Most bury pricing or lean on Facebook. A modern, transparent, conversion-first site is the cheapest edge on the board.
- ◆ Ken's unfair advantage — an active roster of Olympians & NCAA champs, a real "learn & retain" system, and the longest-running camp in the nation — is barely visible online today.

FOUR QUICK WINS

- 1 Show pricing & 1-click registration everywhere — stop losing families to click-through friction.
- 2 Put the coaches & hard results up front to match Young Guns' proof game.
- 3 Plant the flag on the 2-week intensive / rite-of-passage story now that JROB is gone.
- 4 Deflect repetitive email with an "Ask Coach" FAQ assistant + auto follow-up on abandoned registrations.
